Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Introduction

This is not a course in astrology, but a reference book of astrological interpretation that can be used with just about any astrological horoscope, geocentric or heliocentric, natal or transit. This e-book is part of a series that allows readers to interpret their own charts and learn about the art of interpretation.

If you are already interested in astrology, know your way around a bit, and have your natal chart, you need to read no farther. This book allows you to explore any 3-way planetary combination, using what are called midpoint trees or any aspect pattern in the chart.

What makes this work more interesting is that all 360 3-way planetary combinations are illustrated with a tarot-like card called an Astro*Image. It is about time that astrology had the same kind of graphic stimuli that tarot readings do and I hope you like these cards. Each 3-way planetary combination (360 combinations in all) is shown with interpretive keywords, written interpretation, and Astro*Image card.

As you will see this is primarily a guidebook, a guide to the major 3-way astrological interpretations used by professional astrologers all over the world.

And these brief interpretations are not intended as definitive statements. Nothing here is written in stone. The keywords, Astro*Image graphic cards, plus the various written interpretations are intended to spark your imagination and get you on the same page with what these astrological combinations might mean.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

They are not intended to be any kind of last word, but just a guide to get your own intuition and imagination.

3-Way Planetary Combinations

Although 3-way planetary combinations are probably as old as astrology, they came into prominence through the work of German astrologer Alfred Witte (1871-1941) who founded the Hamburg School of Astrology. Although Witte developed several astrological techniques (Trans-Neptunian planets, planetary rulerships, etc.) it is his planetary formulae, what have been called “Planetary Pictures,” that we are referring to here, in particular his methods of relating any three planets to one another. Witte’s technique was later popularized and expanded by German astrologers Reinhold Ebertin in this quintessential book, “The Combination of Stellar Influences.”

Witte presented three kinds of planetary pictures, which we will review here.

Half-Sums

These are very straight-forward, one planet is at the midpoint of the other two. This is called a Direct Planetary Picture.

VENUS ----- SUN ----- JUPITER

In the above, the Sun is at the center or midpoint between Venus and Jupiter.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Half-Sums with a Common Axis

Here we have several half-sums that share a common axis, with or without a planet at that point. In this book, we will cover only those cases where there is a third or common planet.

 MARS----- MERCURY

Here we have the Sun as the midpoint between the planetary pair Venus and Jupiter, and also as the midpoint between the pair Mars and Mercury.

Indirect Planetary Picture

The third form of planetary picture occurs when a third planet aspects the midpoint of the other two. This is called an "Indirect Planetary Picture."

VENUS ----- JUPITER
SUN -----|

In the above, the Sun is at some strong aspect to the midpoint of the Venus/Jupiter combination.

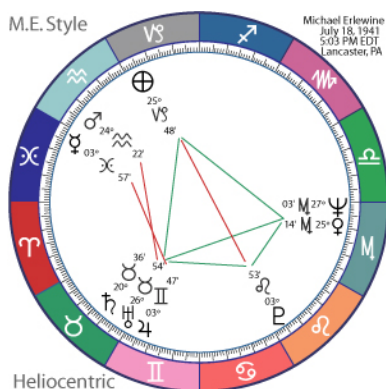

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

3-Way Aspect Patterns

An alternate use of these 3-way planetary combinations developed by this author and highly recommended involves any aspect pattern in the astrological chart that involves three or more planets. Examples of such patterns would include the Grand Trine, the Grand Cross, the T-Square, and dozens of other patterns. I have written an e-book “StarTypes: Life-Path Partners” that details some sixty common patterns.

Using any chart pattern, any three contiguous planets in that pattern can be interpreted using this 3-way method of analysis. Simply select what you consider a key or important planet in the pattern and use it plus the two planets flanking it (on either side) to form a 3-way combination and look it up in this book.

For example, my heliocentric natal chart below includes a Grand Trine configuration that includes many planets, so we have many possible 3-way planet combinations that we can explore. Let’s use the Earth/Sun as our point of focus, since the Earth/Sun represents a connection to our self and is the only single planet in the Grand Trine configuration.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

As to what other planets to use on either side, let's choose the planet Uranus from the group on the left, and the planet Neptune from the group on the right, which gives us this combination:

Uranus-SUN/Earth-Neptune

Using the Table of Contents, we look up this 3-way combination and find the following:

Living Together / New Age Man

Meaning:

Alternative approaches to spirituality; new ways of embracing reality. This includes new insights into food, health, families -- you name it. Also, music and film, a break with the traditional. Something new.

Relational:

New insight into understanding (and thus accepting) relationships. Living together.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

A Word on 3-Way Combinations

I kind of like the “New-Age Man” part, since I have been involved in home birth, home education, organic foods, astrology, and so on my whole life. It mentions music and film; I developed the All-Music Guide (allmusic.com) and the All-Movie Guide (allmovie.com), two of the largest entertainment-oriented sites on the Internet. Of course, I have been an astrologer for over 40 years. I could go on and on, but you get the idea how this book can be used.

The uses of this book are only limited by your imagination and the number of 3-way combinations in your chart that stand out. I have been using these large aspect patterns for many decades in my astrological counseling work, looking at both the standard geocentric natal chart and the heliocentric natal chart.

I have included an article on these large aspect patterns at the back of this book. You might want to check it out. Otherwise, please enjoy looking up your 3-way planetary combinations.

How to Use this Book

First of all you will need some kind of astrological chart. This could be a chart for the day you were born, which is called in astrology a “natal chart.” You could also use a chart for today (or any other date in your life which is significant) which is called a transit chart. Both natal and transit charts work with this book just fine.

As to where you can get such a chart? There are dozens of inexpensive computer programs plus all kinds of web services that will calculate your chart, some of them are even free. Just about every astrological program and web service will provide you with a list of planets and most also provide at least the major planetary aspect pairs that are prominent for that chart. If not, these aspect pairs are easily to locate and you can calculate the aspects yourself. There is a section in the back of the book that shows how to calculate them yourself.

Large Aspect Patterns

The Astrology

Astrology has many facets, but most astrologers would agree that planetary aspects are a large part of what modern astrology is all about -- the angular relationships between one planet and another. We can walk outside, look at the Sun up in the sky above us and perhaps also see the Moon coming up above the horizon. From where we stand, the angle of separation between the Sun and the Moon is what astrologers call an aspect of one kind or another. An aspect can be any angle from zero degrees (when the two bodies are in the same spot) to 180 degrees when they are on opposite sides of the earth from one another.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Aspect Cycles

An example of an aspect we all have experienced is the Full Moon, the moment when the aspect (angular separation) between the Sun and the Moon is exactly 180 degrees – with the Moon directly opposite the Sun, one on either side of the earth.

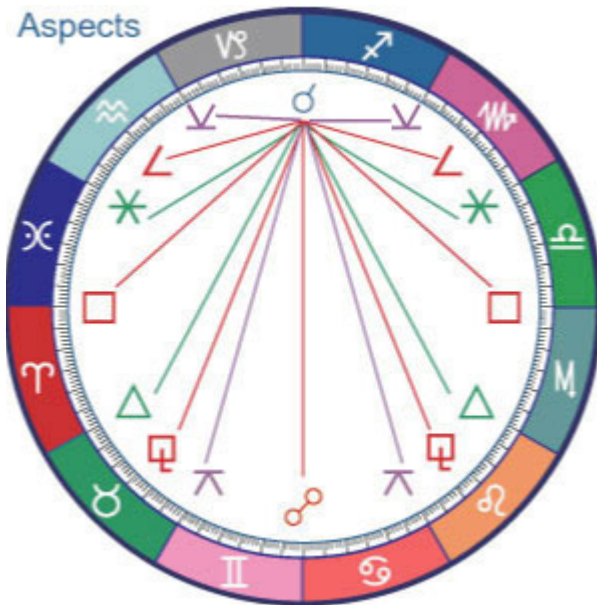

Of course, the Moon circles the earth each month, and is always making some aspect or angular relationship with the Sun as it moves from New Moon one month to the New Moon of the next month, some 29.5 days later.

Not only astrologers, but most people in the world are more-or-less aware of the ever-changing Moon in the sky each night, as it makes its monthly 360-degree circle around the earth. We can also see the Moon (sometimes) during the day, when it is not too close to the Sun. These angular separations or aspects have always fascinated astrologers.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Standard Aspects

Over the centuries, astrologers in all parts of the world have found certain angular separations between any two bodies in the heavens of particular interest. We just mentioned the Opposition or 180-degree aspect above that marks the Full Moon. The Conjunction or zero-degree aspect is another, where the two bodies are exactly together in the sky is another (the New Moon). These are perhaps the two most important (and well-known) astrological aspects.

In addition, the 60-degree aspects (Sextile), the 90-degree aspect (Square), and the 120-degree aspect (Trine) are also considered very auspicious and make up what we could call a second tier of aspects used by almost all astrologers.

Most Western astrologers would also add the 45-degree aspects (Semi-Square), and the 135-degree aspects (Sesqui-Quadrate) to the mix. Still other astrologers would add the 30-degree aspect (Semi-Sextile) and the 150-degree aspects (Inconjunct) as well. This makes for a total of sixteen aspects that most modern astrologers commonly use.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Aside from the Conjunction and Opposition, each of the other aspects comes in two versions, a right and a left-handed variety, what I like to call "Mirror Aspects." They are called mirror aspects because they are exact reflections of one another, one on each side of the 360-degree aspect cycle.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Mirror Aspects

An example of a mirror aspect that we all know is the First Quarter and Fourth Quarter Moon that can be seen in the sky each month. Both are 90-degree angular separations of the Sun and Moon (Square aspect), but one occurs during the waxing half (First Quarter) of the lunar cycle, as the Moon moves toward the Opposition (Full Moon), and the other (Fourth Quarter) occurs during the waning half of the lunar cycle, as the Moon moves from the Opposition back to the Conjunction (New Moon).

Each of these two aspects is the very same aspect as far as the number of degrees of separation is concerned, but one is a mirror image of the other, one happens when the Moon is growing brighter, and the other after the Full Moon when it is halfway back toward the New Moon.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

All heavenly bodies (any two bodies) have mirror aspects and (as we pointed out) all aspects are mirrored except when they are at the Conjunction and the Opposition aspects. More about this later. Here I just want to introduce to the concept of mirror aspects, a topic we will get into more detail later on.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Aspect Patterns

So far we have been looking at a single aspect between two bodies, in this case the Sun and the Moon. But in actuality, there are ten heavenly bodies out there (eight planets and the Sun and the Moon), and they are all making aspects to one another as we speak, a total of 45 aspects all taking place at the same time.

Much of the work an astrologer does when they look at your natal chart is to examine these many aspects to see how they relate to one another, to see how exact they are, and what kind of overall patterns they form.

As you can imagine, it can be a little intimidating at first trying to keep track of these many heavenly bodies and all of their interdependent ever-changing aspects.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

What most astrologers do is look for those angular separations between any two bodies that form one of the sixteen aspects listed above, and they tend to (for that moment at least) ignore anything else – the space in-between aspects. I do this too, but I also do something else, which I want to tell you about.

Once I have determined which major aspects there are in the chart and noted them, I then look to see if any of these aspects are linked one-to-another to form an aspect pattern that stretches all the way around the chart, the full 360 degrees. These linked series of planetary aspects are appropriately enough called aspect patterns. I call them whole-chart patterns and find them very important when they occur in a natal helio chart.

To make this clear: aspects between planets can be scattered anywhere in the chart; they do not necessarily connect up one to another to form linking patterns that stretch part way or all the way around the chart. This is an important point, so please make sure you understand. We are speaking here of aspects that connect one-to-another all the way around the chart, ending on the planet where the aspect chain started. Such aspect chains are called “Whole-Chart Patterns.”

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Whole-Chart Patterns

These whole chart patterns have been studied for many centuries and a whole body of astrological knowledge and folklore has built up around them, which makes their interpretation fascinating. We mentioned earlier the two most basic aspects, that of the Conjunction (when two bodies are at the same exact point in the zodiac) and the Opposition (when two bodies are opposite one another in the zodiac). In addition, other two-body aspects include the Trine (120 degrees), the Square (90 degrees), and so on. These are two-body or isolated aspects, and are not the kind of aspect patterns I am talking about here. Most of the more famous whole-chart patterns are three and four-body patterns. Let's look at some of the best known of the three-body whole chart patterns.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

Chart Patterns: The T-Square

When two planets are opposite one another in the natal chart and at right angles to a third planet, this is traditionally called a “T-Square.” These three bodies form a “T” configuration in the heavens. For centuries, the square or “cross” aspects have been said to be difficult and inauspicious. Astrologers call them one of the “hard” aspect patterns, as opposed to the “soft” or easy aspects. Sometimes they have even been called “Bad” or “Evil.” We will get into the interpretation of these aspects further on.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

The Grand Trine

Another very ancient pattern is the Grand Trine, when three bodies are positioned around the zodiac at equal 120-degree distances from one another to form what amounts to an equilateral triangle. If the T-Square forms a perfect cross, then the Grand Trine most effectively avoids forming a cross. If the T-Square marks the center with a cross, the Grand Trine most perfectly avoids the center entirely. The Grand Trine is said to be the paradigm of the soft or easy aspects. In the history of astrology, trines in general and the Grand Trine in particular, have been said to indicate ease and facilitation. They are one of the so-called “Easy” or “Good” aspect patterns.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

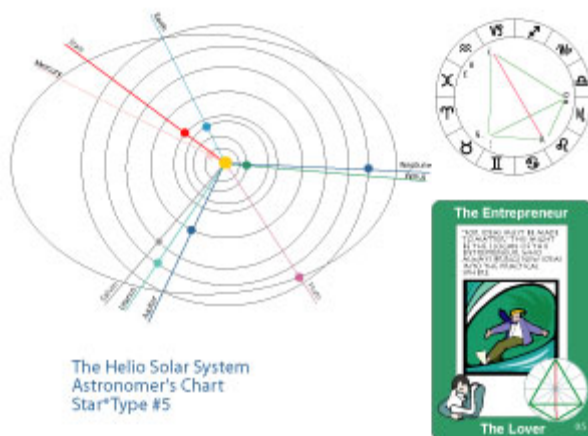

The Two Opposites StarTypes

In a very real sense these two astrological aspects, the Trine and the Square, have been traditionally considered antithetical or polar opposites, using such words as “easy” and “hard,” auspicious and inauspicious, and even “Good” and “Bad.” More important for our study here, the whole chart pattern based on these two aspects, the T-Square and the Grand Trine patterns have come to represent these two archetypal opposites, the Yin (trines) and the Yang (squares) of astrology.

If the Trine aspect is traditionally a “Good” aspect and the Square aspect is somehow a “Bad” aspect, then the Grand Trine is the paradigm pattern of the good aspect and the T-Square the paradigm pattern of the bad aspect.

Interpret Astrology: Three-Way Combinations

StarTypes Astrology

In a real sense, most of the other major whole-chart patterns can be related to one or the other of these aspect pattern families, the T-Square and the Grand Trine. This is a key point.

Every astrologer has his or her areas of astrology where they have a natural passion. These whole-chart patterns happen to be one of my areas, and I have studied them intensively since the late 1960s and early 1970s. And like most astrologers, my fascination with these patterns is in direct correlation to their ability to reveal to me information of great use about myself, my family, and all those I have come to know in my life.

This study has not been some abstract piece of astrological research on my part, but an adventure beyond my wildest expectations, one that has carried me beyond any astrology I had known up to that time and beyond into uncharted waters. These large-scale or whole-chart patterns have come to represent for me the basic archetypes of the human condition. After many years of research, I have come to call these whole-chart patterns “StarTypes.”

Internationally known astrologer and author Noel Tyl (author of 34 books on astrology) has this to say about Michael Erlewine:

“Michael Erlewine is the giant influence whose creativity is forever imprinted on all astrologers’ work since the beginning of the Computer era! He is the man who single-handedly applied computer technology to astrological measurement, research, and interpretation, and has been the formative and leading light of astrology’s modern growth. Erlewine humanized it all, adding perception and incisive practical analyses to modern, computerized astrology. Now, for a second generation of astrologers and their public, Erlewine’s genius continues with StarTypes ... and it’s simply amazing!”

A Brief Bio of Michael Erlewine

Michael Erlewine has studied and practiced astrology for over 40 years, as an author, teacher, lecturer, personal consultant, programmer, and conference producer.

Erlewine was the first astrologer to program astrology, on microcomputers and make those programs available to his fellow astrologers. This was in 1977. He founded Matrix Astrology in 1978, and his company, along with Microsoft, are the two oldest software companies still on the Internet. Michael, soon joined by his astrologer-brother Stephen Erlewine, went on to revolutionize astrology by producing, for the new microcomputers, the first written astrological reports, first research system, first high resolution chart wheels, geographic and star maps, and on and on.

Along the way Matrix produced programs that spoke astrology (audio), personal astrological videos, infomercials, and many other pioneering feats. Michael Erlewine has received major awards from UAC (United Astrological Conferences), AFA (American Federation of Astrologers), and the PIA (Professional Astrologers Incorporated), and scores of on online awards.

Michael and Stephen Erlewine have published a yearly calendar for almost 30 years, since 1969. Michael Erlewine has produced and put on more than 36 conferences in the areas of astrology and Buddhism.

Example Astro*Image Card

Aside from his current work as a consultant for NBC's iVillage and Astrology.com, Erlewine has personally designed over 6,000 tarot-like astrology cards, making authentic astrology available to people with little or no experience in the topic. These Astro*Image™ cards are available through a variety of small astrological programs and in eBooks. Some examples can be found at WWW.StarTypes.com, where there is also a link to his astrological software.

Personal Astrology Readings

Michael Erlewine has been doing personal astrology readings for almost forty years and enjoys sharing his knowledge with others. However, his busy schedule makes it difficult to honor all requests. However, feel free to email (Michael@Erlewine.net) him if you wish a personal chart reading. He will let you know if his current schedule will allow him to work with you.

The sections that follow will give you more details about Michael Erlewine and his very active center.

The Heart Center House

In 1972, Michael and Margaret Erlewine established the Heart Center, a center for community studies. Today, the Heart Center continues to be a center for astrological and spiritual work. Over the years, hundreds of invited guests have stayed at the Heart Center, some for just a night, others for many years. Astrologers, authors, musicians, Sanskrit scholars, swamis -- you name it, the Heart Center has been a home for a wide group of individuals, all united by their interest in spiritual or cultural ideas.

Heart Center Library

Erlewine also founded and directs The Heart Center Astrological Library, the largest astrological library in the United States, and probably the world, that is open to researchers. Meticulously catalogued, the current library project is the scanning of the Table of Contents for all major books and periodicals on astrology.

The library does not have regular hours, so contact ahead of time if you wish to visit.

The All-Music Guide / All-Movie Guide

Michael Erlewine's devotion to studying and playing the music of Black Americans, in particular blues, led to his traveling to small blues clubs of Chicago and hearing live, blues greats like Little Walter, Magic Sam, Big Walter Horton, and many others. He went on to interview many dozens of performers. Much of this interviewing took place at the Ann Arbor Blues Festivals, in 1969 and 1970, the first electric blues festivals of any size ever held in North America, and than later at the Ann Arbor Blues & Jazz Festivals. With their extensive knowledge of the blues music, Erlewine and his brother Daniel were asked to play host to the score or so of professional blues musicians and their bands. They were in charge of serving them food and (of course) drink. Michael went on to interview most of the performers in these early festivals, with an audio recorder, and later on with video.

The interviewing led to more study and ultimately resulted in Michael founding and developing AMG, the All-Music Guide, today the largest single database of music reviews and documentation on the planet. Erlewine started from a one-room office, and the reviewers and music aficionados of the time laughed at his attempt to cover all music. But he persisted, and the all-Music Guide appeared as a Gopher Site, before the World Wide Web even existed—a database of popular music for all music lovers.

Over the years AMG grew, and the All-Movie Guide and All Game Guide were born, and also flourished. Later, Erlewine would create ClassicPosters.com, devoted to the history and documentation of rock n' roll posters, some 35,000 of them.

These guides changed the way music was reviewed and rated. Previous to AMG, review guides like the "Rolling Stones Record Guide" were run by a few sophisticated reviewers, and the emphasis was on the expertise of the reviewer, and their point of view. Erlewine insisted on treating all artists equally, and not comparing artist to artist, what can be important, Michael points out, is to find the best music any artist has produced, not if the artist is better or worse than Jimmie Hendrix or Bob Dylan.

Erlewine sold AMG in 1996, at which time he had 150 fulltime employees, and 500 free-lance writers. He had edited and published any number of books and CD-ROMs on music and film. During the time he owned and ran AMG, there were no advertisements on the site and nothing for sale. As Erlewine writes, "All of us deserve to have access to our own popular culture. That is what AMG and ClassicPosters.com are all about." Today, AMG reviews can be found everywhere across the Internet. Erlewine's music collection is housed in an AMG warehouse, numbering almost 500,000 CDs.

Heart Center Meditation Room

Michael Erlewine has been active in Buddhism since the 1950s. Here are his own words:

“Back in the late 1950s, and early 1960, Buddhism was one of many ideas we stayed up late, smoked cigarettes, drank lots of coffee, and talked about, along with existentialism, poetry, and the like.

“It was not until I met the Tibetan lama, Chogyam Trungpa Rinpoche, in 1974 that I understood Buddhism as not just Philosophy, but also as path, a way to get through life. Having been raised Catholic, serving as an altar boy, learning church Latin, and all that, I had not been given any kind of a path, other than the path of faith. I hung onto that faith as long as I could, but it told me very little about how to live and work in this world.

“I had been trying to learn the basics of Tibetan Buddhism before I met Trungpa Rinpoche, but the spark that welded all of that together was missing. Trungpa provided that spark. I got to be his chauffeur for a weekend, and to design a poster for his public talk.

“More important: only about an hour after we met, Trungpa took me into a small room for a couple of hours and taught me to meditate. I didn’t even understand what I was learning. All that I know was that I was learning about myself.

“After that meeting, I begin to understand a lot more of what I had read, but it was almost ten years later that I met my teacher, Khenpo Karthar, Rinpoche, the abbot of Karma Triyana Dharmachakra Monastery, in the mountains above Woodstock, NY. Meeting Rinpoche was life-changing.

“It was not long after that we started the Heart Center Meditation Center here in Big Rapids, which is still going today. My wife and I became more and more involved with the monastery in New York, and we ended up serving on several boards, and even as fundraisers for the monastery. We helped to raise the funds to build a three-year retreat in upstate New York, one for men and one for women.

"We also established KTD Dharma Goods, a mail-order dharma goods business that helped practitioners find the meditation materials they might need. We published many sadhanas, the traditional Buddhist practice texts, plus other teachings, in print and on audio tape.

"Years have gone by, and I am still working with Khenpo, Rinpoche and the sangha at the Woodstock monastery. Some years ago, Rinpoche surprised my wife and me by telling us we should go to Tibet and meet His Holiness the 17th Karmapa, and that we should go right away, that summer, and I hate to leave the house!

"That trip, and a second trip that followed some years later, turned out to be pilgrimages that were also life changing. Our center in Big Rapids has a separate building as a shrine room and even a small Stupa; pictures are shown below.

"I can never repay the kindness that Khenpo Rinpoche and the other rinpoches that I have taken teachings from have shown me."

Music Career

Michael Erlewine's career in music started early on, when he dropped out of high school and hitchhiked to Venice West, in Santa Monica, California, in an attempt to catch a ride on the tail end of the Beatnik era. This was 1960, and he was a little late for that, but right on time for the folk music revival that was just beginning to bloom at that time. Like many other people his age, Erlewine traveled from college center to center across the nation: Ann Arbor, Berkeley, Cambridge, and Greenwich Village. There was a well-beaten track on which traveled the young folk musicians of the future.

Erlewine, who also played folk guitar, hitchhiked for a stint with a young Bob Dylan, and then more extensively with guitar virtuoso and instrumentalist Perry Lederman. Erlewine helped to put on Dylan's first concert in Ann Arbor. He hung out with people like Ramblin' Jack Elliot, Joan Baez, The New Lost City Ramblers, and the County Gentlemen.

In 1965, the same year that the Grateful Dead were forming, Michael Erlewine, his brother Daniel, and a few others formed the first new-style band in the Midwest, the Prime Movers Blues Band. Iggy Pop was their drummer, and his stint in the band was how he got the name Iggy. This was the beginning of the hippie era. Michael was the band's lead singer, and played amplified Chicago-style blues harmonica. He still plays.

Erlewine was also the manager of the band, and personally designed and silkscreened the band's posters, one of which is shown below.

The Prime Movers became a seminal band throughout the Midwest, and even traveled as far as the West Coast, where the band spent 1967, the "summer of Love," playing at all of the famous clubs, for example, opening for Eric Clapton and Cream, at the Fillmore Auditorium.

As the 60s wound down, and bands began to break up, Erlewine was still studying the music of American Blacks, in particular blues. Because of their knowledge of blues and the players, Michael and his brother Dan were invited to help host the first major electric blues festival in the United States, the 1969 Ann Arbor Blues Festival. They got to wine and dine the performers, and generally look after them.

Michael interviewed (audio and video) most of the players at the first two Ann Arbor Blues Festivals, they included: Big Joe Turner, Luther Allison, Carey Bell, Bobby Bland, Clifton Chenier, James Cotton, Pee Wee Crayton, Arthur Crudup, Jimmy Dawkins, Doctor Ross, Sleepy John Estes, Lowell Fulson, Buddy Guy, John Lee Hooker, Howlin' Wolf, J.B. Hutto, Albert King, B.B King, Freddie King, Sam Lay, Light-nin' Hopkins, Manse Lipscomb, Robert Lockwood, Magic
